

B. & O. Restores Service; Trains Being Operated Again, Both Divisions

Heavy Damage to Tracks East and West of City Reported.

BIG FORCES OF MEN WORK

With service completely suspended between Cumberland and Pittsburgh from Saturday morning until Sunday afternoon, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company suffered the greatest blow from the floods which paralyzed portions of Western Pennsylvania over the weekend. The damage done (cannot be estimated but it will cost thousands upon thousands of dollars to the system.

The Connellsville division, with its damage to the tracks here and portions of tracks at other points, is believed to have suffered the least. At that the train service here was completely stopped for a time. The greatest damage wrought by the Yough was the cutting away of the river bank for a depth of six or seven feet along the yards from the upper end to below Sodom, and undermining of tracks, making them so weak that no locomotives were sent upon them today.

The recovery of the railroad, with the river now back in its course, is taking rapidly. The passenger service is again established between Washington and Pittsburgh over the main line and today freight was moving both east and west, all shipments being accepted except any destined for the Allegheny yards in Pittsburgh. These are still inundated.

Baltimore and Ohio train service over its own main line was nearly normal by noon today. It was said. Trains were running nearly on time and the signal system was again in complete operation.

During the period of suspension all through B. & O. trains operated over the Pennsylvania lines between Baltimore and Pittsburgh.

For the first time since its inauguration, the Capital Limited, which completed its run on schedule, being blocked east of Cumberland Saturday afternoon. The train, due here at 8:55 o'clock Saturday night, arrived at 3:45 o'clock Sunday afternoon. It was the first train west on the B. & O. tracks since No. 14 made its trip to Pittsburgh Saturday morning, replacing No. 89, running seven hours behind time.

No. 18, running east, arriving here yesterday evening at 8:10 o'clock was the first train east since No. 8 went through at 9:50 o'clock Saturday morning. No. 65 and 67 Fairmont branch trains were brought here over the Southwest branch of the Pennsylvania railroad, running out of Pittsburgh through Greensburg, to Everett and switching to their own lines there.

The stop on the Pittsburgh Division occurred between Layton and West Newton.

The automatic system on the Connellsville Division was out for a time when the Penn Public Service Company at Rockwood, from which power is secured for operation between place and Cumberland, was forced to place and Cumberland, the Edison plant down.

Luminate Company at Cumberland furnished power for this section. The West Penn supplies current between Connellsville and Rockwood.

When the light power river went into the stream Saturday night, light to the effect of the company at its station were extinguished. Services were re-established by running a temporary line in from Water street connections.

A small bridge was reported washed out on the White's Creek Branch out of Confluence but this is not considered serious. Although it has been reported the bridge at Greensville, Md., was gone the railroad company had no confirmation of such report.

The B. & O. this morning began dumping slag along the river edge to strengthen its outside tracks. It will require tons of this material to extend the bank to its former position. A belief was expressed today that the company would now probably build a worth-while retaining wall to prevent future occurrences like Saturday's.

The Baltimore and Ohio's damage here could not be estimated. Neither is it known how long will be required to put the yards back into shape. The river was raised six to eight feet of the river bank and removed earth right up to the first track next to the river. This will all have to be filled in and strengthened before available for use again. The situation here is only a glimpse of what it is all along the line.

The Connellsville and Pittsburgh divisions were completely paralyzed Saturday night and up to Sunday night. Last night, however, a few freight trains with westbound freight that could be moved right through Pittsburgh, went out. Nothing for the Allegheny yards are still inundated. Two more westbound trains left this morning.

In the Connellsville stockyard there are 100 loads of cattle. This is the capacity of the yards and not including the ones there.

MORRELL MAN LEAPS INTO DUNBAR CREEK; BODY IS RECOVERED

While crossing the West Penn trestle at Fayette yesterday morning, Herman V. Baughman, 37 years old, of Morrell, jumped into the waters of Dunbar creek, raised by the flood, and was drowned. His brother, Arthur J. Baughman, who saw the man make his leap, ran to the bank of the stream and endeavored to save him but without success.

Relatives of the man say he was mentally unbalanced. Several persons who reached the Pennsylvania bridge before the struggling man had been washed that far. The water was so high he was unable to grasp the body of the man who was struggling in the water. The man was found floating in the stream, still holding to his brother. A crane seized him and he was pulled out of the water.

The body was found this morning near the place where it was last seen. It had been found in a pool of water. The young man had been in poor health for several months. He lived with his brother.

The body was removed to the funeral parlors of J. T. Durland at Dunbar but no funeral arrangements have yet been made.

SOUTH SIDERS HAVE AN AMPLE WATER SUPPLY

Many South Siders had an overabundance of water Saturday night. Some started a report that the Connellsville Water Company would have to suspend at 8 o'clock and that it probably would not be operating before Sunday night. The result was that every available vessel was filled for the emergency.

A large area was quickly spread over a large area, neighbors on the edge of the town to the south of the river to the south of the river to the south of the river.

But the plant was not affected.

Capstan Glass Company Quickly Meets Emergency

The rise of the river Saturday afternoon and night was the signal for the Capstan Glass Company where preparations had been made to resume operations today at the No. 1 furnace which had been idle for three months. Four days the supply of water from the plant of the Connellsville Water Company might fall made it necessary to fix pumps and run a line to the river to guard against destruction of the furnace tanks, the walls of which are coated with water.

Within seven hours the work was completed. Had the water company's lines been extinguished by the flood the glass tanks would have been burned through by the molten glass and the entire plant destroyed unless the glass company had been in position to supply water. Happily before the pumping station level was reached the river began to recede.

Other hundred persons were given employment by the resumption of the furnace.

High Water Puts Out Fires in Boilers of Trotter Water Plant

High water on Saturday afternoon forced a suspension of operation at the plant of the Trotter Water Company, located above the West Penn power plant. The water plant sits near the bank of the river and when the waters raised they flowed into the boiler room and extinguished the fires. With no steam pressure it was impossible to continue service.

The pumps were stopped at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Work was resumed at 4 o'clock Sunday morning.

The swinging bridge, located near the plant, went out some time during Saturday afternoon. It was reported.

FIVE MILLIONS LOSS BY FLOOD PITTSBURG AREA

Ohio and Tributaries Receding After Worst Rampage in 11 Years.

HUNDREDS ARE HOMELESS

PITTSBURG, March 31.—The devastating flood waters of the Monongahela, Allegheny, Ohio and Youghiogheny rivers today were slowly receding after leaving in their wake a path of ruin and human suffering. The rivers reached the highest stage in 11 years.

Property damage is estimated at nearly $5,000,000. Railroad passenger service was disrupted and freight transportation virtually paralyzed when the rivers overflowed their banks. Telephone and telegraph communication was hampered when underground cables were submerged.

Tragedy rode on the waters of the swollen creeks and rivers in Western Pennsylvania, eight lives being lost as an indirect result of the flood. Three drownings were reported at McKeesport, two in Pittsburgh, two at Beaver Falls, one at Johnstown. Officials of industrial plants at Braddock, Rankin, East Pittsburgh and Turtle Creek estimate their property damage from the flood at $1,000,000.

Six hundred families were driven from their homes at Duquesne and 400 at McKeesport.

Flood waters were receding at the rate of four-tenths of a foot an hour at 9 A. M. today, according to the weather bureau here.

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio, March 31.—The Ohio River, which inundated lowlands in five towns in East Liverpool District, dropped 10 inches today. Five pottery plants and suspended a flood of 387 feet early today. The Ohio then began to recede at the rate of a tenth of a foot an hour.

THREE CHILDREN DROWN IN INDIAN CREEK AT MELCROFT

When the swift current of Indian Creek seized the raft upon which they were playing, three children, two boys and a girl were carried to their death at Melcroft at noon Saturday.

The children were Andrew Donkey, 11 years of age; Joseph Skow, 14 years of age; and Viola Skow, 8 years of age. When the water formed a pond around the house of the miners at Melcroft, the boys and girl, who were playing in the creek, were carried away by the flood.

The bodies of the boys had not been recovered at 3 o'clock.

The girl secured hold of a fence post, on which she rode while her life ebbed away. About a quarter of a mile below the scene of the accident, her body was found.

Searching parties worked Saturday, Sunday and this morning with their last being fruitless.

The bodies of the boys had not been recovered at 3 o'clock.

Saturday's Yough River Flood Crest 21 Inches Higher Than Year 1907

Saturday's flood stage of the Youghiogheny River was the highest of which any one living here has recollection, so far as could be learned, it exceeded that of 1907 by 21 inches, according to an official measurement by City Engineer J. E. Holsinger. It was higher than a much discussed flood of 1888. Evidence of this is found in the fact that never before did water flow through the West Side Hotel, while Saturday night it swirled through the hall of the hotel a foot deep.

During the flood of 1907 Engineer Holsinger placed a mark on the curb in Water street, near the Hunt Hotel. He measured Sunday and found the peak of the 1924 flood was 21 inches above that of the previous record one.

Water stood seven inches deep on the first floor of the Hunt Hotel. This was three inches deeper than during the 1888 flood.

W. J. Roland, proprietor of the West Side Hotel, estimated his loss by flooding of the basement and ground floor at $2,000. The water began flowing into the hallway of the hotel about 6 o'clock. It did not begin to recede perceptibly until after midnight and did not flow well toward morning was the first floor free of water.

Water covered the sidewalk in front of the hotel Saturday.

Water street along City Hall grounds had been up in Crawford avenue. West Side west of Second street and was flowing in a strong stream down Front street. The same was true of Water street.

Recollections of the stage of the flood of 1907 along Water street misled some to thinking that Saturday's water was not as high. At several places the level of Water street has been changed. The dip under the Pennsylvania bridge is an example. This section was lowered since 1907 to prevent death and injury to engineers and trainmen on freight passing under it who often were caught unaware by the bridge.

The platform at the Baltimore and Ohio station was constructed since the 1907 flood. The same is true of the concrete wall along the stream.

The flood of 1907 caused the water to come to the level of the under portion of the floor of the West Side Hotel, but never before was known to have gotten into it. It was recalled by an old-timer that in 1888 water flowed around the south side of the structure. At that time there was no concrete sidewalk, nor was the street paved and the belief was that the grade was lower then. Water flowed in a large stream around the end of the hotel Saturday.

T. ROBB DEYARMON, REAL ESTATE MAN, IS DEAD AT DAWSON

T. Robb Deyarmon, 76 years, four months and 24 days old one of the most widely known and highly respected citizens of Fayette county, passed away at his home at Dawson Saturday evening at 9 o'clock, following an illness of a complication of diseases. The end was hastened by an attack of grip.

Mr. Deyarmon was born on November 5, 1847, at the old Deyarmon homestead in Jefferson township, being a son of the late David and Isabelle Deyarmon, and one of a family of six children, consisting of four girls and two boys.

After completing his education Mr. Deyarmon studied dentistry under the late Dr. Shomaker of Brownsville, but later became a druggist at Dawson, following this line of business for several years.

He was elected to the State House of Representatives in which capacity he served his district during the years of 1875 and 1876, being the youngest member of the Legislature at that time. He was again elected to the House in 1899.

Mr. Deyarmon was also associated with Connors and Marshall in publishing the Genus of Liberty and the Evening Genus, the then leading Democratic newspapers of Fayette county.

After disposing of his drug store, and his interest in the two newspapers, Mr. Deyarmon conducted a grocery store at Dawson for several years and then started a real estate business in Uniontown and Dawson, which business he conducted until his death.

Through his real estate business, Mr. Deyarmon became probably the most widely known figure in the realty world in the county, his interests being located in Fayette in Uniontown and made a trip to the county seat, being a familiar figure in Connellsville, where he regularly boarded a traveling car.

Mr. Deyarmon was united in marriage to Belle Fairchild of Dawson, who died in 1887. He is survived by one son, Mrs. Catherine Cunningham of Pittsburgh, near Uniontown. He resided in Uniontown about two years when he was owner of the newspaper, which was the father of his son. Mr. Deyarmon's mother was born in Pennsylvania and his mother in England.

The funeral service will be at the home Tuesday at 2 o'clock.

BRIDGE ACROSS CASSELMAN AT CONFLUENCE OUT

Water So High Casselman River and Laurel Hill Creek Meet.

MUCH OF TOWN FLOODED

CONFLUENCE, March 31.—The county bridge spanning the Casselman River was swept away by the flood Saturday evening and as a result the East Side and West Side are separated, except by a long detour by way of the Western Maryland bridge.

The water of the Casselman rose 21 feet, it is estimated. Laurel Hill creek also was out of its banks and the two streams met at the crest of the flood, near the First National Bank.

Two thirds of Confluence was under water and thousands of dollars' damage was done by flooding of homes and business houses. No attempt was made to definitely estimate the loss.

The water of the Youghiogheny River was over the county bridge but the structure held.

The Casselman was higher than ever known.

Part of the warehouse of Harvey Kurst was washed away. Many small buildings were carried off by the flood.

Guard Against "Flu" With Muterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches, get busy with good old Muterole.

Muterole is a counter-irritant that relieves congestion (which is what a cold really is) and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Have Muterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

To Mothers: Muterole is now made in smaller form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Muterole.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE

People Notice It. Drive Them Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Clears the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel. There is no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cured with a "dark brown taste" a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a pure vegetable compound mixed with olive oil, you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c and 30c.

PROTESTS FILED AGAINST INCREASE IN PHONE RATES

HARRISBURG, March 31.—Telephone subscribers are awaiting the announcement of the new tariff charges which Bell officials say are to become effective May 1. These revised rate schedules must be filed with the Public Service Commission 30 days before becoming effective.

Under the rules of the commission each subscriber must receive notification of the increase to permit protest if desired. It is believed these notices will be sent out with the bills for April. For some weeks past employees in certain branches of the Bell system here have been working overtime and it is believed the revised rate schedules are being prepared by them.

Officials of the Bell Company here claim ignorance of the proposed changes which it is estimated will add between $100,000 and $400,000 to revenues of the company annually. Separate rate schedules must be filed with the Public Service Commission for each central zone.

Although no talking of the proposed changes in rates has been heard from the company officials, people throughout the state have started to send the commission letters protesting the increases and complaining of service. Others ask concerning filing of formal complaints.

Some rumors are afloat about the proposed changes, but none could be verified. It is reported that a flat increase of six per cent would be added to present rates, others claim toll charges would be raised while others say the business and residential rates would be advanced.

Trio Charged With Gambling.
Three men, all charged with gambling, were arrested last night. Alex Agny one of the trio, appeared for a hearing and was fined $100. The other two, John Wolfe and Harry Commons, did not show up this morning. Wolfe forfeited $25 and the other had made an arrangement for a hearing later.

Hard Work Done the Easy Way

American invention and enterprise have done much to take the hard toll and drudgery out of house work, as well as to provide many conveniences that add to the comfort and happiness of the home. Most all the hard tasks of housekeeping can be avoided or made far less arduous by modern appliances. To lighten the burden is to provide more opportunity for enjoying life.

Here are only a few of the items that are now almost indispensable in many homes:

Vacuum Sweepers
Washing Machines—Electric or Water Power
Electric Irons
Gas Ranges
Sewing Machines—with or without motor
Dish Washers
Fireless Cookers
Kitchen Cabinets
Modern Stoves
A host of kitchen and household utensils

Our stores can supply anything in the above lines. Ask one of our salesmen about them. The cost of this modern equipment, we believe, is less than you realize.

The Paramount

"HER MAJESTY"—Showing today and tomorrow at the Paramount, presents Mollie King and Creighton Hale in the stellar roles.

Susan and Rosalie are twins. Susan has been brought up on the farm by a poor aunt; Rosalie in society by a rich aunt. Just before returning to college Ted Harper meets Susan. When he comes back he mistakes Rosalie for the girl he loves. Rosalie keeps up the deception, partly because her aunt wishes it, but largely because this situation enables her to carry on a clandestine affair with Harry Ives.

The aunt Susan lives with dies. Alone and unprotected, Susan starts out to find her rich aunt. She innocently accepts the assistance of Joe McMillon, who takes her to a questionable rooming house. There she is befriended by Mabel LaFabe, an old housekeeper. This meeting later enables Susan to save Rosalie from making the hideous mistake of a runaway marriage with Harry. Rosalie repents her foolishness and brings Ted and Susan together and accepts the hand of her most faithful suitor.

Wednesday and Thursday, Monte Blue and Irene Rich will be seen in "Defying Destiny."

The Soisson

"THE HUNCHBACK OF NOTRE DAME." The local premier of the widely heralded Universal production, "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" will take place at the Soisson Theatre tonight. Prior to the world premiere at the Astor Theatre in New York City officials of the corporation were reluctant in discussing the plot changes made in the immortal Victor Hugo masterpiece, beyond stating that certain changes had been made to avoid offending and religious discrimination. A careful reading of the New York criticism, however, divulged that the changes were generally endorsed and simply deleted some of the gruesome scenes and switched the importance of some of the characters in order to make the ending more acceptable to theatre-goers. It is of interest to note that for the first time the critics approved changes in a masterpiece.

From all available sources of information Universal has reached the zenith with this production. Certainly no production was ever made with better ingredients of success. The producer had the story, one that is filled with action; he had the greatest of character stars, Lon Chaney; a capable director in Wallace Worley and unlimited funds and studio facilities not equalled anywhere in the world. The fact that the total cost was just a trifle under a million and a half dollars gives some idea of the grandness of the production.

The noted cast in addition to Lon Chaney, includes Ernest Torrance, Patsy Ruth Miller, Norman Kerry, Nigel de Bruliere, Tully Marshall, Brandon Hurst, Gladys Brockwell and 87 other featured principals as well as some 3,500 extras. The Cathedral of Notre Dame was rebuilt in its entirety for the production, as well as eight squares of Parisian houses of the period of Louis XI.

The Orpheum

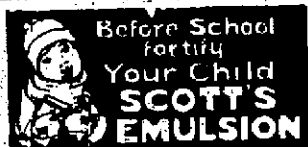

"HER REPUTATION"—Which opened today at the Orpheum for a three-day attraction, presents May McAvoy, popular screen star, in the stellar role.

There is bigger entertainment value in "Her Reputation" than any screen offering since "The Hotchpotch" galloped off with every laughing record in the country. A spectacular flood of the Mississippi River, novel scenes, filmed in the editorial and composing rooms of a great newspaper plant; a police raid in one of San Francisco's gayest cafes during sensational dance scenes; an auto smash-up and a forest fire are a few of the high lights of the picture. Magnificent sets were built for the production in addition to the unusual locations which were used for the big out-door scenes. Romantic old New Orleans has been contrasted with the white lights of San Francisco. The flood sequence, filmed on the Colorado River, where federal authorities cooperated by opening the flood gates of the great Laguna dam at Yuma, Arizona, carries a vivid illustration of the great lengths to which a big producer will go to get novel and startling effects for the public. The break of the "levees" and the rush of waters that pour over the valley when the flood time comes is the finest thing of its kind ever shown.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday "The Heritage of the Desert," a screen version of Zane Grey's popular western novel will be shown.

That Try-on!

Those accustomed to wearing hand-tailored garments know the value of having a try-on before the coat is completed. This avoids any alteration whatever after the suit is finished. The "hang" of the coat should be perfect to distinguish it from the ordinary ready-made. The suit will then convey that individual effect that can be obtained only when made to your measure. It should retain its shape until discarded. Thorough tailoring insures wear and service in the garment.

AARON COMPANY READY TO CELEBRATE ITS 33 YEARS IN BUSINESS

Tomorrow marks the 33rd anniversary of the Aaron Company, founded in Connellsville by the late I. Aaron. Almost a third of a century has elapsed since Mr. Aaron opened his first furniture store in Connellsville in the Odd Fellows building on East Lawrence street, then Main street. The beginning was small but the store was founded on a policy, original in those days of merchandising but sure of success as the years rolled by. That the elder Mr. Aaron's policy of doing business was sound is evidenced by the magnitude of the organization and by the thousands of people who are not only customers but staunch friends.

It was not long until the first Aaron store outgrew its quarters. The first down-town location was the old Newberry building where stands today the six-story Aaron building. This store room, like the first, was not nearly large enough to take care of the rapidly expanding business and again Aaron sought new quarters, hence the McClellan block of three floors and basement. Again it was "found" after a few years, and still greater floor space was necessary to keep pace with the growing business. There was no other building in Connellsville large enough to house the store which meant the building of a modern structure of sufficient dimensions to accommodate the business for many years in the future. The elder Mr. Aaron purchased the site at the corner of Pittsburgh and Apple streets and in 1908 secured ground for the present structure which was completed in 1907. It was in this year just after the store had been comfortably arranged for business, with added stock and caused a large loss, in a surprisingly short time the wreckage was cleared away and the damage repaired.

The opening of the big new store in Connellsville was a decided mark in the progress of Aaron's but in reality it was only the beginning of an institution that was destined to become one of the biggest furniture organizations in Western Pennsylvania. In 1911 a store was established in Greensburg and like the local store, it too has been a decided success. The biggest advance, though, came in 1922 with the opening in Uniontown of the first exclusive furniture and household furnishing store to be found anywhere in the country.

Aaron's for years have celebrated their business anniversary with a sale of wonderful magnitude. This year the occasion demands a celebration sale of still larger proportions. These yearly events were conceived by the

ABE MARTIN On Marriage

Marriage hasn't got it nowhere when they begin to consider getting married. Good looks plays entirely too big a part in marriage, while the qualities of mind and heart that don't fade are rarely ever considered. There's a great many people try to make the most of marriage an "stand for" lots of things that would put a business partnership in twenty-four hours. They just reason, "Well, we're up against an' there's nothing to do but like it," just as we reason when a tire blows out a million miles from nowhere. Most couples get along fine before they married, but after they hooked up, ever more quality such as this has been called a lottery, but why should it be a lottery unless either of the contract parties expect it to be the best of it? Men and women don't shop around enough when they begin to consider getting married. MONONGAHELA AT 42-FOOT STAGE AT BROWNSVILLE

Reaching a flood stage of 42 feet at Brownsville, the Monongahela River flooded the entire valley from Brownsville to Point Marion, causing much damage to houses and plants along the water front. The stage of 42 feet was the highest level reached by the river since the 42 foot stage of a decade ago, according to Brownsville residents.

The streets next to the river front in West Brownsville were flooded, the water rising in some places to the first floor of the residences along the streets, necessitating the use of boats for travel to and from. On the old ball diamond it is reported that the water which backed up through the creek flowing through the Neck reached the second floor of some of the residences.

At West Masontown, the ferry was forced to stop operation because of the high water leaving scores of automobiles stranded on both sides of the river.

At Point Marion and points between the town and West Masontown, the river went over its banks in several places but reports indicate that little damage was caused other than that of cleaning out those residences which are located close to the water front.

The river reached a high level in Point Marion, flooding several cellars in the western section, while on the Chest side of the town, Point Marion was flooded in some spots but not entirely covered by the water.

HOUSE WASHED AWAY AT OHIOPILE, POWER PLANT IS USELESS

Special to The Courier.

OHIOPILE, March 31.—The Youghiogheny River was the highest stage ever known here Saturday night. It was far above the stage of 1907.

A four-room cottage of the Anderson Coal Company, located 50 feet east of the county bridge, was washed away, together with its contents. The furniture was the property of the coal company. The house was vacant at the time.

The eastbound track of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad was saved from being put out of commission by company workmen and citizens who constructed cribbing to replace the washed-out ballast.

Water was over the county bridge. At 11:30 Saturday night, when the stream was at its peak it had reached a depth of 15 inches at places on the bridge.

The race leading to the hydro-electric plant was washed away and the town has been in darkness since and probably will be until the West Penn Power Company has completed its high tension line from Farmington. Poles have been set up except for a mile on the Ohio pile and wires are being strung on the Farmington end. It is not believed the power company will rebuild the race.

During the height of the floods the famous Ohio pile falls was not a fall. The water was in a steady incline over the precipice. Hundreds gathered to watch the raging stream.

Power Consumption Indexes Prosperity

In discussing the significance and meaning of the growing increase in the consumption of electric power, George O. Smith, director of the United States Geological Survey, declared that it presents unmistakable evidence of the increasing prosperity of the country.

"The year 1924 has begun with an average daily production of electricity by public utility power plants exceeding all previous records," says Mr. Smith. "The 197,000,000 kilowatt-hours, which was the average daily output in January, represents the energy equivalent of the work of 250,000 men for an eight-hour day. These power statistics, which have been collected by the Geological Survey since 1915, are the result of monthly returns from some 3,500 stations, and that totals are available for every state, and it is clear that they offer one of the most sensitive and valuable indicators of business.

"In the first place, electric power faithfully reflects all business and the per cent of it which is used for lighting gives a not disproportionate weight to its domestic use. The curve is nowhere distorted by storage. The production of power is simultaneous with its consumption, and the production curve is actually a consumption curve. Therefore, the curve is not affected by ordinary strikes and external factors such as car supply except when interruptions in the receipt of fuel supply cause long enough to interrupt the supply of electricity plants carry sufficient fuel in storage to supply their needs for one or two months and an interruption in the supply of one of the basic commodities will affect business—as a whole as will, of course, be indicated by a decline in the production of electricity public plants.

"The use of electrical power fur-

FOUNDATION OF HEATING PLANT SUFFERS DAMAGE

The foundation at the plant of the Connellsville Down Draft Heater Company at the lower end of Second street, along the river, was damaged, at part of it collapsed but it was said the loss would not be heavy.

Some of the stock was shifted to guard against damage to it should water get into the structure. It did not get in.

British Miners Ask Big Wage Increase

British coal producers and representatives of the miners' union are seeking a new agreement to take the place of the existing arrangement which the union has cancelled effective April 17. So far their efforts have been unproductive. Whether a strike can be avoided remains to be seen.

The men are asking for wage increases which it is understood would aggregate $215,000,000 a year. It is claimed by the employers that the British coal industry, which depends for its very existence upon export trade, cannot stand any such additional burden.
